

Dying Consciously: The Greatest Journey

A project of the Institute for Energy Medicine

The Greatest Journey is a service dedicated to helping people make their final transition. It is designed for all persons involved in the dying process: the individual, family members and friends. It offers a message of hope with easy to follow steps: it is possible to bring dignity and peace back to the dying process.

The Greatest Journey shows us that we can come to the end of a life with grace.

The Great Death Rites practiced by historic traditions allow us to understand the kind of psychological and emotional closure needed. They provide specific steps to bring both reconciliation and healing to the loved ones and to the person dying.
